SUMMARY

The Effect of Using Taboo Game on Grade 8 Students' Vocabulary Achievement at SMP Negeri 1 Bangsalsari in the 2012/2013 Academic Year; Hidayati Agustina, 080210401070; 2013:52 pages; English Education Program of Language and Arts Education Department, the Faculty of Teacher Training and Education, Jember University.

Vocabulary is one of the important language components that should be mastered by the students. Tarigan (1989:2) argues that the quality of someone's language skill depends on his/her quality and quantity of vocabulary they have. Someone who has sufficient vocabulary, he/she will have better performance and bigger chance to master language. If he/she has low vocabulary mastery, she/he cannot express feeling, idea and opinion well. By having sufficient vocabulary, they can express their idea, opinion and chat well with others. Therefore, the researcher chose game to teach vocabulary. Moreover Wright et al. (1996:1) say that games not only can encourage and help students sustain their interest and work but they can also help the teacher to create context in which language can be meaningful and useful. This means that games can be useful in language teaching learning process.

This research was done to know whether or not there is a significant effect of using Taboo game on students' vocabulary achievement at SMPN 1 Bangsalsari in the 2012/2013 academic year. The research design was quasi experimental research. The population of this research was grade eight students of SMPN 1 Bangsalsari in the 2012/2013 academic year consisting of six classes. The previous students' score from the teacher were analyzed by using ANOVA. The result of analysis by using ANOVA was not homogenous. So, the research respondents were determined by choosing two classes who had the closest mean score. Then lottery was conducted to determine the experimental and control group.

The research involved two classes, the experimental and the control group. The experimental group consisted of students who were given treatment, teaching vocabulary by using Taboo game and the control group consisted of students who were not given treatment but they were taught by using lecturing and question and answer. The research respondents were VIII C and VIII D.

The primary data of this research were collected from the students' post test, while the supporting data were gained through interview and documentation and observation. The primary data were collected then analyzed by using t-test formula. The statistical value of t-test was -0.072 , while the t-table with significance level of 5% and the degree of freedom (D_f) of 57 was 1.684 ($-0.072 < 1.684$). It indicated that the result of t-test analysis was not significant. Therefore, the null hypothesis (H_o) which was formulated: "There is no significant effect of using Taboo game on grade eight students' vocabulary achievement at SMP Negeri 1 Bangsalsari in the 2012/2013 academic year" was accepted. On the other hand, the alternative hypothesis (H_a) which was formulated: "There is a significant effect of using Taboo game on grade eight students' vocabulary achievement at SMP Negeri 1 Bangsalsari in the 2012/2013 academic year" was rejected.

The research results showed that there was no significant effect of using Taboo game on grade eight students' vocabulary achievement at SMP Negeri 1 Bangsalsari in the 2012/2013 academic year. Therefore, according to this research, it is not suggested that the English teacher of grade eight use Taboo game as an alternative teaching technique in teaching vocabulary. However, it is suggested to be used at the students that have medium or high proficiency level.

CHAPTER1. INTRODUCTION

This chapter presents background of the research, problem of the research, operational definition of the terms, scope of the research, objectives of the research, and significance of the research.

1.1 Background of the Research

English is an international language (Talebinezhad et al, 2001) that is often used to communicate among different nations around the world. It is used in any field of study such as in education, science, technology, economy, trade, etc. It plays a very important role in many countries. Even in Indonesia, it is the first foreign language which is important to transfer and gain knowledge, science and technology, art and culture, and establish international relationship. English has become one of the most important foreign languages learned by students at schools. It has been taught from elementary school up to universities. It means that English is the most widespread language in the world.

Language skills in English that must be mastered are speaking, listening, reading and writing. In addition, there are some components that support those skills, namely: vocabulary, structure and pronunciation. Vocabulary is one important aspect in learning a foreign language. Without a proportional amount of vocabulary anyone will get trouble in her speaking, reading, listening, and writing. It means that vocabulary is one element that links the four skills together. It is relevant to Tarigan's statement (1989:2) that the quality of someone's language skill depends on the quality and quantity of vocabulary they have. It means that someone with richer vocabulary will have better performance and bigger chance to master language, because the performance of language depends on the vocabulary he/she has. Without having sufficient vocabulary, someone will have difficulties in communication with
